INTRODUCTION

José Peirats Valls was born March 15, 1908 in the village of Vall d'Uxo, in the province of Castellon, Spain. He died August 20, 1989 in Burriana near Vall d'Uxo at the age of 81.

Peirats' family emigrated to Barcelona in search of a better life. He started working as an apprentice at the age of eight years. He attended school occasionally until he discovered the Rationalist Ferrer School where a gifted libertarian teacher awoke in him the desire to learn. At fourteen, he started working as a brickmaker's apprentice and at that time, he joined the Confederación Nacional de Trabajadores (CNT).

His meager schooling did not deter him from acquiring extensive knowledge. An avid reader and a prolific writer, he contributed articles to the CNT press and became active in the day-to-day social struggle.

During the years of the Spanish Civil War (1936-1939) his anarchist convictions led him to criticize the CNT for entering the government.

From December 1939 to 1947, he travelled to the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Panama and Venezuela, working as a farmer, sailor, ice man and photographer. He attended the Congress of the Spanish Libertarian Movement in France in 1947 as the Venezuelan delegate and at that time was elected General Secretary of the Intercontinental CNT in Exile. Peirats was the first such representative to re-enter Spain clandestinely in order to make contact with the underground CNT. In the early 1970s, Peirats suffered health problems which continued to plague him throughout the rest of his life. Due to his companion Gracia Ventura he was able to continue to write and work for many years.

Peirats was particularly noted for his political and historical writing. He served as editor of Solidaridad Obrera, Ruta and CNT, and he contributed to many other anarchist publications. He wrote the three-volume work La CNT en la revolución española (c. 1951-1953), Breve Storia del Sindicalism Spagnolo (1962) which appeared in Volonta, Los anarquistas en la crisis política española (1962), which appeared in English in 1977 as Anarchists in the Spanish Revolution, Emma Goldman, anarquista de ambos mundos (1978), later in 1983 reprinted as Emma Goldman: Una mujer en la tormenta del siglo and other books and pamphlets.

The papers of Peirats were received by the IISH in 2001. They mainly consist of a series of alphabetical correspondence 1946-1989, including correspondence with CNT sections and other correspondence, typescripts of his memoirs 'Mi paso por la vida' and 'Recuerdos de un militante libertario', typescripts of articles, correspondence with editors and other documents, documentation concerning the CNT, Peirats and other documentation.
